S. Suzuki, a Japanese, was held up in his room in the Japanese hospital, on Quincy avenue, near Twenty-second street, about 5 a. m. today and robbed of $150. He saw only one man, but while this robber kept him covered with a revolver, another ransacked several other rooms in the house, securing two savings banks containing about $5, two lady's gold watches and a gold ring.

The men gained an entrance to the hospital by unlocking the front door with a skeleton key. They departed by way of a rear door and, as soon as they were gone, Suzuki reported the robbery to the police department. The case was investigated by Detective Robert Chambers.

FEDERAL FUNDS FOR STATE ROADS

Road projects being built co-operatively by the forest service and the state of county will be the subject of discussion at a conference between L. K. Kneipp, district forester; Charles H. Kendall, senior highway engineer, and J. P. Martin, engineer of the Ogden district, with E. R. Morgan, state road engineer, in Salt Lake today. The money used in the construction of these projects is derived from a fund created by the deduction of 10 per cent of the forest receipts for road building projects.

Before leaving Ogden headquarters at 11 o'clock a. m., Mr. Kneipp stated that road projects, for which federal aid would be sought under the forest service provision of the Shackleford-Bankhead law, probably would be brought up in the discussions.

The part the forest service takes, in the preliminaries to securing money under this measure, is to recommend or disprove projects suggested by a body of the state road organization. Before any definite steps can be taken, the secretary of agriculture must first pass upon a proposed project.

A complaint charging robbery was filed against George Read, Frank Davis and R. E. Hayes in the municipal court this morning and the hearing of the case was set for October 3. The trio is alleged to be a part of a "choloral" gang that has been operating in the city and the information contained in the new complaint against them alleges that they robbed Peter Larson of $10 last Thursday afternoon. Larson was found in an unconscious condition at the rear of a lower Twenty-fifth street saloon, shortly after the arrest of Read and Davis, and is thought to have been "doped" with chloral by them and Hayes, who was arrested later.

Hayes is also thought to have been connected with several railroad robberies of recent date and a member of the Salt Lake police department accompanied two Wells Fargo agents to Ogden yesterday to investigate this matter.

Attorney Soren X. Christensen of Salt Lake City has been retained to defend the three men on the local robbery charge.

PARENTS OF WOUNDED
FORESTS

Safety measure for tourists in the tourist register system installed in all the national forests being used for summer outing purposes was demonstrated recently in the Lemhi national forest in Idaho when a ranger, by referring to the register at the forest entrance and examining the registers at other places along the regularly described trails, was able to locate the parents of a youth who had been wounded in a shooting accident in Idaho.

This is in accord with information received at Ogden district forest headquarters this morning. The information was contained in a report of activities in the forest by the forest supervisor.

Further describing the incident, the supervisor stated that the ranger, on receiving a telephone message at 12 o'clock at night, telling him of the accident and requesting him to locate if possible, the parents who were then in the forest, started out on the search. Traveling in an automobile from headquarters at Mackay he followed the forest trails. After a few hours search by telephone and examination of registers, he succeeded, returning to the Idaho city at 7 a. m. At district headquarters the incident was declared to be only one of many wherein parties in the forests were located quickly by the tourist register system.

The Ogden high school football team was insured success during the fall season of 1916 at the high school this morning when members of the 1915 squad elected Reuben Fox captain. The organization was otherwise completed when the student body elected R. L. Conner athletic manager. Simultaneously with this action, Principal J. E. Beeson completed by naming R. W. Shirey, coach and chairman; E. G. Johnston, secretary; E. H. Haslam, treasurer, and E. H. Dunaway, a member.

Fox, by reason of three years' experience at tackle, was considered the candidate best fitted for the captaincy of the 1916 team. This team, it was stated this morning, would be composed largely of old members provided in practice work stronger players are not developed, and an organization with prospects for a victorious season is expected to be the result.

There are now two full teams in the squad and practice work is being carried on daily. Fifteen students who qualified will comprise the first team.

The tentative schedule has been outlined. On October 14 the local high school will play Jordan high at Jordan, West Side. West Side on October 21; East Side in Ogden on October 28; ranite in Ogden on November 9. The November 2 date has been left open. It was stated the team probably would play out of the city on that date.

The season will be brought to a finish with the Thanksgiving game. This game will be with Boise, probably in Ogden.

E. A. SHERMAN HERE
OF FORESTERS

That only about 2 per cent of all national forest land will be deemed valuable for agricultural purposes when classification work is completed, was the statement today of E. A. Sherman, former Ogden district forester, but now assistant forester at the head of the department of lands in the Washington offices, who arrived in the city yesterday.

At Ogden headquarters today, Mr. Sherman began conferences with local officials in the lands department regarding land classification work being performed in the district. The conferences probably will continue throughout the week during which time an exhaustive study will be made of available data and material gathered by C. N. Woods, assistant district forester, R. E. Gery, and other field experts connected with the lands department.

Mr. Sherman stated that the land classification work had progressed to the stage where $6,000,000 acres of the total 258,000,000 acres of national forest land had been classified and that field work on 75 per cent of the remainder had been completed. This work was started in 1912, since which time 13,000,000 acres have been removed from forest service jurisdiction. Only about 10 per cent of this acreage has been deemed valuable for agricultural purposes.

Mr. Sherman has been in the west several weeks. Recently he conducted land classification investigations at Portland and Missoula, and will return to those two places before proceeding to headquarters of the other three districts in continuance of an inspection trip.

HOLIDAYS OF THE JEWS

The Hebrew New Year, the 5677th since the creation of the world, called Roah Hashannah, will be observed all over the world beginning next Wednesday evening, September 27, by the orthodox for two days, by the reform Jews one day. This month is designated in the Pentateuch as the first day of the seventh month and in the later Jewish literature as Tishri. All Jewish twelve months were named and brought from Babylon in the time of the wandering of the Jewish race in Babylonia. On this day, according to Jewish history, God Almighty accomplished the creation of the world, called Haras Olom. God took his seat as the king and ruler of the world. The trumpet announces that God is king and ruler of the world. Shofar means horn of a ram. Blowing on the trumpet is from Yom Truoh. The memorable blowing on the trumpet is called Lichron Truoh. The blowing on the horn of a ram refers to Father Abraham when Abraham obeyed the wish of God to sacrifice his only son Isaac. When Abraham was ready to fulfill the wish of God, an angel called, "Abraham, Abraham," saying "God has been convinced of your faith; don't sacrifice your son Isaac." God sent a ram, his horns tangled in the bushes, and Abraham sacrificed the ram instead of his son. Therefore the Jews, the world over, on this day blow on a ram's horn, Shofar—instead of a trumpet.

On this day all the dolans of every person, willingly or unwillingly, intentionally or unintentionally, knowingly or unknowingly of the past year are accounted by God, for which reason it is called Yam Haddin, the day of judgment by God. At this season the orthodox Jews observe the new years two days instead of one. The reform Jews are observing one day. Sages in the olden times were in doubt which was the real day on which the creation of the world by God was accomplished. On the first or second day of the 7th month, on both days of the New Year holiday, the trumpet is blown in all orthodox synagogues, except when one of these two days falls on Sabbath, when the blowing of the trumpet is suspended. From this day, and for ten more days till the day of atonement, or Yom Kippur, on October 7, are called ten days of penitence, or Asseret Yomay Tshuvoh. During these ten days every soul considers thoughts of penitence, praying to God for forgiveness, to receive the seal and stamped judgment of God, and on the tenth day receiving forgiveness to Israel by God.
